

Why SEAC?

As a parent with a son with special needs, many questions arise concerning what is appropriate education. SEAC has been invaluable in teaching how special education works in conjunction with general education. This forum allows parents to share their experiences and also offer opinions and advice with education professionals that benefit the entire special education program in the school district. Personally, I have found a place to have my concerns addressed while also educating me to be a strong advocate for my child."

Nichol, parent

"I am a better advocate because of my involvement in SEAC."

Special Education Advisory Council

Who Are We?

We are parents of students with special needs, school professionals, and community members dedicated to:

- Advocating for high quality programs & services
- Advising on special education policies, procedures & practices
- Assisting in identifying areas of improvement
- Encouraging good communication & support.

Minnesota State Law 125A.24 requires the Robbinsdale Area School district to have a SEAC to increase the involvement of parents of children with disabilities in district policy making and decision making.

Be informed. Build relationships.
Make a difference.

There are many reasons for joining SEAC!

- Learn how the special education system works in the school district
- Learn information & skills that will help you become an effective advocate for your children and others.
- Meet other parents, school professionals & community members with similar goals.
- Sharing your unique perspectives & insights will help the school district work more effectively with families & improve outcomes for children.

Join Us!

Your child benefits as well as other children with special needs & their families in the school district.

SEAC meetings are scheduled once a month during the school year except for December at New Hope Learning Center.

To access the meeting schedule, please visit our web site at www.rdale.org or call the Special Education office for further information at 763-504-8600.

You can make a difference!

"We all have ability. The difference is how we use it."
